I currently works for FXFOWLE Architects in the International studio. There I am a designer that creates sustainable and dynamic architectural design all over the world in countries such as United Arab Emirates, Saudi Arabia, India, Azerbaijan and Japan. During my years at FXFOWLE I worked on projects in the International studio that has received high praise and honors from the architectural community and has been televised and published all over the world. Projects such as the Museum of the Built Environment and The Greater Noida Group Housing in India some were recipients of the MIPIM/ Architectural review award and were featured on the Discovery Channel and Good Morning America.

In addition to being a designer Pascale has also taken on several leadership roles including being the International Studio representative to the Team Green Committee and the United States Green Building Council. She is also a passionate mentor to young designers in high school with the ACE mentoring program. The program's mission is to enlighten and increase the awareness of high school students to career opportunities in architecture, construction and engineering industry through mentoring.
